Grounds for Record Deletion

The guidance issued in respect of the Record Deletion Process sets out the grounds under which an application should be considered. Please identify the reason(s) below for which you consider to be the grounds on which you make this application

Unlawfully taken. Where you believe your DNA or fingerprints were taken unlawfully. (You should note that Section 1 of the Protection of Freedoms Act 2012 provides that a Chief Officer must destroy your DNA and fingerprints if it appears they have been taken unlawfully).	<input type="checkbox"/>
No crime. Where it is established that no crime has been committed. For example, a sudden death where an individual is arrested at the scene and subsequently charged, but after post mortem it is determined to be natural causes and not a homicide.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Malicious/false allegation. Where you have been arrested and charged, but the case has been withdrawn at any stage, and there is corroborative evidence that the case was based on a malicious or false allegation.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Proven Alibi. Where there is corroborative evidence that you have a proven alibi and as a result have been eliminated from the enquiry after being arrested.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Incorrect disposal. Where the disposal options applied by the police following your arrest are found to have been administered incorrectly. Record deletion in these circumstances could also be the product of review within the criminal justice process, for example, the withdrawal of a caution.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Suspect status not clear at the time of arrest. Where you were arrested at the outset of an enquiry where the circumstances and distinction between the offender, victim and witness is not clear, and you were subsequently eliminated as a suspect (but you may be a witness or victim).	<input type="checkbox"/>

Judicial recommendation. If, in the course of court proceedings, a magistrate or judge makes a recommendation that your DNA, fingerprints or PNC record should be deleted.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Another person convicted of the offence. Where the conviction of another person for the offence may constitute grounds for the deletion of your DNA, fingerprints and PNC record.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Public interest. Where you believe the chief officer should determine that there is a wider public interest to delete your DNA, fingerprints or PNC record.	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>

In 2001 when aged 14 years I was arrested for burglary, it went to court and I was issued a fine which I paid in full.

It was a difficult time in my life and I was under pressure to fit in to make friends which is why I agreed to help on this day. I admitted my part in the event from the outset. Since this time I have turned my life around and feel I have suffered enough with this on my record.

I would like to pursue a new career in teaching and believe having this on my record will hold me back from pursuing a new career and possibly teaching abroad.

I believe that I have served my sentence and should now be allowed to continue on with my life with a clear record.
